2018-2019 EXECUTIVE SUMMARY AND AFFIRMATIVE ACTION GOALS

I. SUMMARY

UNM is committed to EEO and Affirmative Action principles that ultimately create and foster a diverse and inclusive environment. The Affirmative Action Plan (AAP) is one management and organizational tool used to identify underutilization in certain job categories based on availability in those categories and availability in a specified recruitment area. The Office of Equal Opportunity (OEO) has completed the AAP for 2018-2019 pursuant to Executive Order 11246. UNM has prepared a separate AAP for Main Campus, the Health Sciences Center, and each branch campus. The data has been developed pursuant to the requirements of Executive Order 11246, The Rehabilitation Act of 1974, and the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act of 1974, and requires data to be analyzed in regard to minorities (African Americans, Asians, Hispanics, Native Americans/Alaskan Natives, Native Hawaiians Pacific Islanders, females, veterans and individuals with disabilities (IWDs)) for the period of November 1, 2017 to October 31, 2018.

A. Affirmative Action Plan (AAP)

- What is the AAP?

The AAP is legally mandated by Executive Order 11246 and requires UNM to create a written report that measures whether women, minorities, veterans and IWDs are being employed at the expected rate given their composition of the contractor's workforce, compared to the relevant labor pool. UNM data is collected annually for the period of November 1 of the preceding year, to October 1 of the AAP year. The AAP also requires that UNM engage in good faith efforts to correct any deficiencies with regard to affirmative action by demonstrating that it is recruiting and hiring qualified women, minorities, veterans and IWDs.

- What does the AAP consist of?

The AAP contains the following reports:

- Organizational Profile (Workforce Analysis)
- Job Group Analysis
- Availability Analysis
- Incumbency v. Estimated Availability
- Placement Goals
- Adverse Impact Analysis Report
- Required EEO/AAP laws, regulations and best practice

- What is the Organizational Profile/Workforce Analysis?

The organizational profile lists every UNM incumbent by department, along with their race and gender.

- What is a Job Group Analysis?

A job group contains jobs or groups of jobs that are similar in content, compensation, and opportunity. UNM has developed extensive job groups that are described on page 6 of this document. A job group analysis is the first step in comparing the representation of minorities, women, veterans and IWD's in its workforce.

- What is an Availability Analysis?

Availability is an estimate expressed in a percentage of the number of qualified minorities and women available for employment from internal and external feeder groups. This analysis serves as a benchmark to determine if barriers to employment exist. Internal feeder groups include all current UNM employees that may be promotable into another job group and reflect the opportunity for UNM to promote people from within the organization. External feeder groups consist of UNM's ability to bring in people from regional and national feeder groups. Regional and national feeder groups are determined by U.S. Census data. For professional job groups, the Survey of Earned Doctorates and the American Medical Association Survey data are also utilized.

- What is Incumbency versus Estimated Availability?

The incumbency versus estimated availability report reflects the percentages of minorities, women, veterans and IWDs within UNM compared to the availability percentages determined in the Availability Analysis. When the percentage of individuals employed in a particular group is less than would be expected given their availability in the particular group, a Placement Goal is set and the position is determined to be underutilized. A goal is set when availability exceeds employment by two or more standard deviations.

B. 2018-19 Placement Goals

- What is a goal?

Goals are calculated by comparing the representation of females and minorities in the University's workforce to the estimated availability for females and minorities in the external or internal feeder group. When the number of females and minorities is significantly lower than availability, a goal is created.

Goals are targets or objectives attained by good faith efforts in improving recruitment, hiring, and retention practices.

- Is a goal a quota?

No. All employment decisions must be made in a non-discriminatory manner. However, the University must make all efforts to expand pools of candidates by reaching out to areas that will increase the number of women, minority, veteran and IWD incumbents.

- What does a goal percentage mean?

If the goal line says "yes" next to the job group there is a goal in that job group. The goal indicates whether the underutilization is for women, minorities, veterans or IWDs.

NOTE: there is a placement goal in virtually every job group for veterans and IWDs at UNM and efforts should always be made in recruitment, hiring and retention of these individuals.

- What do I have to do if a position has a placement goal?

If there is a placement goal in a particular job group, the University should strive to outreach, recruit, hire and eliminate discrimination and barriers from the workplace in order to expand pools of candidates that include women, minorities, veterans and IWDs. Departments should track their efforts.

The new UNM Jobs (Cornerstone) requisitions will automatically indicate which positions have placement goals for women and/or minorities.

- If there is no placement goal in a particular category, does that mean I do not have to recruit for minorities, women, veterans and individuals with disabilities?

The University should strive to outreach and recruit qualified individuals from protected categories for every job posting.

- Is the AAP a diversity plan?

No. The AAP is a legally mandated document that determines underutilization based on estimations of availability in the workforce. Diversity refers to a comprehensive organizational culture that maximizes the potential of all employees by valuing the benefits of a diverse and inclusive workplace. Diversity is not legally mandated but instead is a commitment to an inclusive workforce.

C. Adverse Impact Analysis Report

Adverse Impact Analysis Reports examine personnel activity that occurred last year and compares the personnel actions of the protected groups versus the non-protected groups, to determine if there is an adverse impact.

- What do I do if a job group shows adverse impact?

If a job group shows adverse impact, and you are in a leadership role that oversees recruitment, hiring or termination, you will be contacted by the OEO Director to discuss the findings. Generally speaking, any adverse impact should be examined to determine the reason for the impact.

- What else can I do?

- Ensure that you actively recruit and target outreach to underutilized positions. Document your efforts.
- Post all positions competitively. If you make an exception, articulate and document the reasons.
- Ensure that you review all applicants and interview women, minorities, veterans and IWDs that meet qualifications.
- Be cognizant of individual bias at all stages of the outreach and hiring process, including stereotypes about disability.
- Use detailed applicant dispensation explanations for candidates that are not selected in UNM Jobs (why someone was not interviewed or hired).
- Maintain all applicant and employment records.
- Ensure that all postings and recruitments have the approved EEO taglines and anti-discrimination policies.
- Ensure that search and interview committees are diverse.
- Ensure that applicants with disabilities are able to get prompt and effective accommodations.
- Ensure accessibility during interviews.
- Make sure to allow applicants to self-identify ethnicity, race, gender, veteran, and disability status.
- Ensure that all hiring officials receive AAP and EEO training.

- Contact Francie Cordova, Office of Equal Opportunity at fcordova3@unm.edu if you have questions.
